

Wildlife of Montana

Description

Montana has some of the Lower 48s best wildlife viewing opportunities. The state's vast mountain wilderness areas are home to grizzlies, moose, mountain goats, bighorn sheep, and every other iconic denizen of the Rockies, while the eastern Big Sky plains are the home of pronghorns, hawks, and diverse reptile species. I'm looking forward to getting back to Montana in the next few years and spending more time enjoying its nature.

All photos exclusive copyright of Jeff Aguilar

Bighorn Sheep, Glacier NP

White-tailed Ptarmigan, Glacier NP

Moose Cow, Glacier NP

Columbian Ground Squirrel, Glacier NP

Cedar Waxwing, Glacier NP

Robins, Giant Springs SP

Yellow Pine Chipmunk, Glacier NP

Prairie Rattlesnake, Little Bighorn

Columbian Ground Squirrel, Glacier NP

White-crowned sparrow, Glacier NP

Two-striped grasshopper, Pictograph Cave SP

American Bison, Glacier NP

Bull Moose, Glacier NP

Grizzly Bears, Beartooth Mountains

Grizzly Bear, Beartooth Mountains

Beargrass, Glacier NP

Serviceberries, Glacier NP

Eastern Cottonwood,
Pompey's Pillar NM

Harebell, Columbia Falls

Aster and Bumblebee, Glacier NP

Dogbane, Columbia Falls

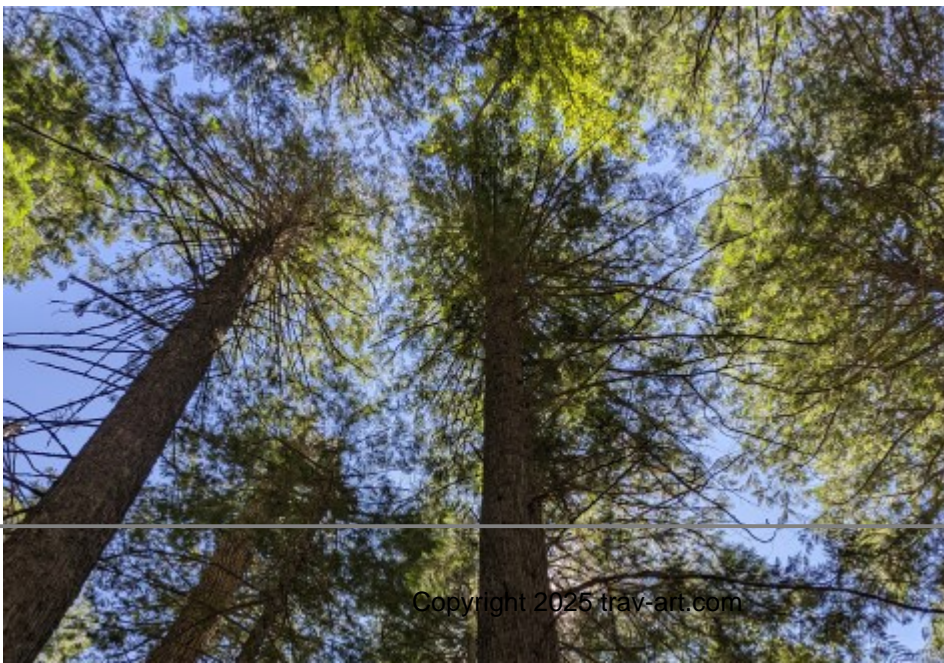

Fireweed, Glacier NP

Douglas Fir, Glacier NP

Canada Goldenrod, Columbia Falls

Cedar Trees, Glacier NP

Sticky Geranium, Glacier NP

Date Created

August 3, 2023

Author

jsde